Only LifeSize Cloud Amplify provides every user their very own personal video library. Videos are logically organised by date, yet users have the autonomy to move and retitle them, “like” popular videos, and flag videos to watch later.

For the videos you own, you can also share them with anyone inside your organisation.

And if your LifeSize Cloud Amplify account manager has enabled sharing outside of your company, you can send videos to partners, vendors and other constituents as well.

Security

LifeSize is serious about security. Your videos are always encrypted; both during the recording and while stored in personal video libraries. Only colleagues and others the owner grants permission to view can watch the video.
