

Telstra Mobile Device Management makes it easier, simpler and more convenient to manage smart devices. It provides a central online tool to manage employee smartphones and tablets when they are in a Telstra Mobile Network coverage area. The cloud-based service covers the most popular device operating systems like Apple and Google Android™. What's more, Telstra Mobile Device Management works just as well whether you have one device or many thousands of devices. If you're an IT administrator, you probably have to contend with the increasing use of smartphones and tablets across the enterprise, plus a growing number of staff who access corporate data through personal devices. Staff are also demanding more functionality from their mobile device when they are out of the office. That means it's harder to ensure corporate data remains secure, while device management is becoming more complex and time-consuming.
